

Update on Amy's Ear Surgery

May 27, 2022 04:14 am | The Coffeys

As many of you know, Amy had surgery on her left ear on May 16th. She went in for the surgery at 7 am, but they couldn't fit her in until around 1 pm. They finished the surgery at about 4:30 pm and I was able to take her home around 8 pm. It was a very long day for her no doubt.

Since getting out of surgery, along with having her ear taped and packed full of cotton, she's had to stay at home, avoid loud noises, and not be in a car or lift anything over 10lbs. That actually continues for another week.

This past Wednesday we met with Amy's doctor for the first time since her ear surgery. The doctor cleaned out her ear and said that everything looks great and things are progressing nicely. Amy has already regained a lot of hearing in that ear, but we won't know the full results for several weeks. We do know that she's not deaf and we praise the Lord she has not experienced any vertigo, which is very common.

I can't thank you all enough for your prayers.

P.S. It looks like we will have full control of the new property for the South Africa Youth Home the first week of June. It's been amazing to see how the Lord is bringing everything together.
